WRESTAURANTS

THE IGLOO VILLAGE

#ORIGINAL #FAR NORTH

You can not only stay the night in La Plagne's Igloo Village (see below), but you can eat there too. In the main room where there are ice sculptures on a different theme every year, a tasty fondue will warm your stomach while animal skins keep your backsides warm! The starry sky and the distant villages form a magical backdrop and the atmosphere is friendly ...

FINNISH KOTAS

#ORIGINAL #SCANDINAVIAN

La Table du Cocoon is like its chef Régis: he likes good things and that shows in what he serves. The products are fresh and local, the dishes are delicate and epicurean. The alternative dining area is outside, with Finnish kota huts set right on the mountain side. These small private chalets offer a particularly convivial Scandinavian ambiance with the clients sitting around the brasero with the chef. Meat lovers will especially appreciate the huge and tasty cuts of meat.

LE FORPERET

#LOCAVORE #MINI FARM

Le Forperet is the perfect place if you want to dive into some melted cheese. Roland, the owner, uses his own cheese in the renowned Fondue Savoyarde and in a tartiflette made according to his own secret recipe, somewhere between a cake and a gratin. The view across the valley is fabulous both in the daytime and at night and children will enjoy meeting Galopin, who supervises the mini-farm attached to the restaurant.

Good to know: Roland proposes cheese-making demonstrations on Wednesdays.

LA SPATULE

#FORGETTARTIFLETTE

#BRITTANYCREPES

La Spatule offers something a little different in this mountain setting: a great choice of crepes! The Breton owners settled in La Plagne to make crepes and enjoy the skiing, creating a small restaurant with a calm, almost timeless atmosphere.

UNION

#SOBRITISH #GASTRONOMY

They promised a restaurant the like of which you would not find elsewhere in Paradiski...and with Union restaurant they have kept their word! London chef Phil Howard and local guy Martin Cuchet offer holidaymakers and locals a top-quality culinary experience in an intimate and cosy setting. The Michelin star that was awarded to Phil Howard's restaurant in England in not even a year resounds in the La Plagne address, particularly, of course, in its menu. Cashew hummus, Beaufort soufflé, beef stew and rhubarb fool that would damn a saint. The icing on the cake: a great wine list and first-class advice. New this year: open for lunch

360 #HOWORIGINAL #PANORAMA

The fully glazed architecture and cubic design indicate an experience that is a thousand light years from a Savoyard chalet: a gamble that has paid off for this new restaurant, which is as different inside as it is outside, if that's possible! The ultra-light, cosy atmosphere and panoramic view can be enjoyed from any of the tables. If those who are in more of a hurry opt for the self-service restaurant on the ground floor, others will prefer the table service on the upper level. Star dishes here include kidneys and andouillettes, or the fabulous Swiss chard risotto.

LE CHALET DE LA ROCHE

#FORGETTARTIFLETTE #REALITALIANFOOD

See you in the Chalet de la Roche where vegetarians won't feel like they are on a diet! The chef is Italian so the pasta is fresh and the pizzas are cooked on a wood fire. The cooks don't skimp on the quantity but they certainly don't forget the quality either. There is a large terrace but it's worth taking a look inside where the decor will remind you that you are just next to France's only bobsleigh track (it ends just 200m from the restaurant). Omnivores often have to be fast to get the dish of the day which is always simple and tasty. As for the desserts – they are simply ir-res-sis-tible!

LES 3 GLACIERS

#SKIROOMRESTO #TRADIREFINED

OK, it's not the easiest place to find, but it's worth the search! Situated in Montchavin, this restaurant is also a ski shop, a delicatessen and a bar. You could say that they are combining work and pleasure... Sam, the owner, proposes a refined version of traditional cuisine: you can order a plate of cold meats, but only with the right wine and preferably sitting by the fireplace. The friendly service and the opening at 7.30am for breakfast complete a truly all-inclusive offer.

LE LAISONNAY

#LOCAVORE #DISCONNECTION

Once upon a time, there was Le Laisonnay... In a setting worthy of a Grimm fairy tale, the culinary experience is quite initiatory. Sitting on the grass, watching marmots gambol in the daytime the dusk takes you back to an earlier time, when people ate comforting food by candlelight. The local products and the traditional recipes express the owners' love for their refuge. Pormonier sausages, matafan (kind of pancake), crozets, wild garlic, you just have to make your choice

CHEZ PAT DU SAUGET

#REFUGE #ONTHESLOPES

Refuges are appreciated nowadays more than ever and Le Sauget is authentic as regards both its decor and its owners! You should make your way there at the end of the afternoon to get settled in by the fire. The impressive forest of fir trees contrasts with the cosy atmosphere inside.

ARAUCARIA

#FAMILY #DESIGN

The Araucaria has undergone a metamorphosis - it was already in an ideal spot just at the bottom of the slopes but now also has a trendy design for a fun, chic new look. The 4* hotel, which is part of the same family as the RockyPop and Héliopic hotels, is perfect for parents and children who love winter sports. There are child-friendly areas everywhere: in the bedrooms, the aquatic area and the bar...and don't forget to check out the sweet dispensers in the lounge!

BLACKSHEEP IGLOO

#IGLOO #FARNORTH

One thing is clear: when it's freezing, your thoughts naturally turn to igloos! La Plagne's igloo village, managed by Blacksheep, consists of two types of igloos: one dug out of snow and ice, just like the real ones and the other heated and totally transparent so you can see the mountain peaks and the stars. The + points: you can eat there (fondue) without having to stay the night
